How do I narrow down a list of colleges that would be appropriate for me?

What are the advantages to applying Early Action and Early Decision? What happens to my application if I don't get in early?

Aside from a student's academic profile, what other factors would distinguish an applicant for admissions? How much weight is given to the college essay and the letter of recommendations? And what makes for a good essay?

How does taking AP and Dual Enrollment courses help my application? Would it be better to maintain 'A's in regular courses? What are the most important factors in admission decisions?

How diverse is your campus? What do you see on your campus that shows support for all different types of students.

Do you host any college events for students interested in visiting your school? When is the best time to visit college campuses?

What do you recommend in regards to applying test optional? Should I send in my SAT or ACT scores?

What is your average student to professor ratio?

I heard that I would have a better chance of being admitted to a school if I apply for a less popular major, is this true?

What type of scholarships does your university offer and how do I apply?

What can I do as an underclassman to strengthen my application.
